TO THE HONORABLE DOUG DUCEY GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF ARIZONA

December 31, 2021

Dear Governor Ducey:

I am pleased to submit to you and the citizens of Arizona the summary report of the Arizona Commission on the Arts for Fiscal Year 2021. This report fulfills the requirements of the act that established the agency (A.R.S. § 41-984).

Fiscal Year 2021 presented unprecedented challenges. I am proud to say that throughout this period of global crisis, the Arizona Commission on the Arts was a model of public sector agility, adaptability, responsiveness, and service.

Consider the speed and efficiency with which relief funds were distributed throughout the state to support arts organizations large and small, as illustrated on page 7. On pages 8 and 9, you'll learn how the Arts Commission transformed its programs and services to meet the immediate needs of the moment while laying the groundwork for the recovery to come. Page 10 describes how the agency activated a statewide cadre of teaching artists to create dozens of streamable video art lessons for homebound learners of all ages. On page 14, you'll hear from arts festival organizers who used Arts Commission grant funds to adapt their programming and methods of engagement, ensuring that the show would go on despite restrictions around travel and public gatherings.

Indeed, proud as we are to report on the work and accomplishments of the Arizona Commission on the Arts during Fiscal Year 2021, the story we hope you and all Arizonans will take from this document is the role that artists and nonprofit arts organizations played in helping Arizona's communities navigate a crisis for which none of us were prepared. In a time of social isolation, they offered opportunities for genuine connection. In a time of contention, they provided spaces for meaningful dialogue. In a time of loss and mourning, they offered the soothing balm of music, poetry, and dance.

Few sectors felt the impact of the pandemic so acutely as the arts sector, and yet, few sectors have proven as innovative, resourceful, and resilient, determined to carry on and dedicated to serving their communities. Arizona's arts organizations and creative workers are vital contributors to the state's post-pandemic recovery; hundreds of cultural organizations across the state have initiated creative and sustainable reopening strategies, helping Arizonans get back to work and contributing to their local economies.

It is our privilege to support them in their efforts and our pleasure to report our efforts to do so.

Yours Respectfully,

AGENCY OVERVIEW

One of 56 state and jurisdictional arts agencies across the United States, the Arizona Commission on the Arts is a 53-year-old agency of the State of Arizona and a dedicated champion of the arts and culture sector, powered by artists, makers, leaders, and lifelong learners living and working across Arizona. Through robust programs, research, and grantmaking, the Arts Commission invests in arts-based partnerships that strengthen Arizona communities.

The Arts Commission is accountable to Arizona residents, their experiences and aspirations. We work alongside artists, makers, leaders, and lifelong learners in service of the public trust.

GOVERNING COMMISSION

The Commission consists of a governing board of fifteen members, including one chairperson and one vice chairperson, appointed by the Governor of Arizona. Commission members serve terms of three years and are chosen for their demonstrated ability, good judgment and experience in arts-related fields. In addition, they are selected to ensure the geographic and ethnic representation of all areas of the state. Commission members attend quarterly Commission meetings, serve as chairs for selection panels, approve grants, and formulate policy consistent with the enabling legislation.

PRIORITY GOALS

The agency's priority goals for the field/sector are a direct reflection of its articulated values, designed for the Arts Commission's partnerships, programs, services, and investments.

1. Arts and culture as essential:

Demonstrate and lift up the vital role of arts and culture in myriad contexts.

2. Artists as vital contributors:

Honor and support artists, makers, and tradition-bearers of all experience levels, living and working across Arizona, to enhance their craft and extend their valuable contributions.

3. Quality arts learning opportunities in a variety of locations and across the age spectrum:

Amplify and support student access to quality, robust arts education in Arizona schools, as well as meaningful opportunities in out-of-school and community settings. Encourage and support quality creative engagement opportunities for learners across the aging spectrum.

4. Creativity as a living natural resource within each Arizona resident and community:

Respect resident voices. Co-create services that nurture and celebrate the creative potential of individual Arizonans, as well as the creative assets and promise of every Arizona city, town, and neighborhood.

5. An equitable distribution of arts-based resources and opportunities:

Reimagine agency programs alongside community partners and those most affected by Arts Commission services, as part of a comprehensive commitment to distributing resources and opportunities in better alignment with Arizona demographics and the geographic location of residents.

6. Public policy and practices advancing all of the above:

Support the development and implementation of policy and practices supporting these goals across the authorizing spectrum.

LONG-TERM VISION

Arizonans have indicated that a successful statewide arts industry features the following attributes:

1

Arizonans have access to vibrant, quality arts and cultural activities regardless of where they live and have opportunities to participate in the arts as practitioners, professionals, patrons, donors and volunteers.

2

Residents have opportunities to make healthy livable wages working in myriad facets of the arts in Arizona communities. Their contributions are valued and respected.

3

Students have access to quality, robust arts education opportunities in Arizona schools. In-school arts opportunities are enhanced by meaningful opportunities in out-of-school and community settings.

4

Arts and cultural programs and organizations are considered societal cornerstones and employed as partners in the revitalization and sustainability of streets, neighborhoods and communities.

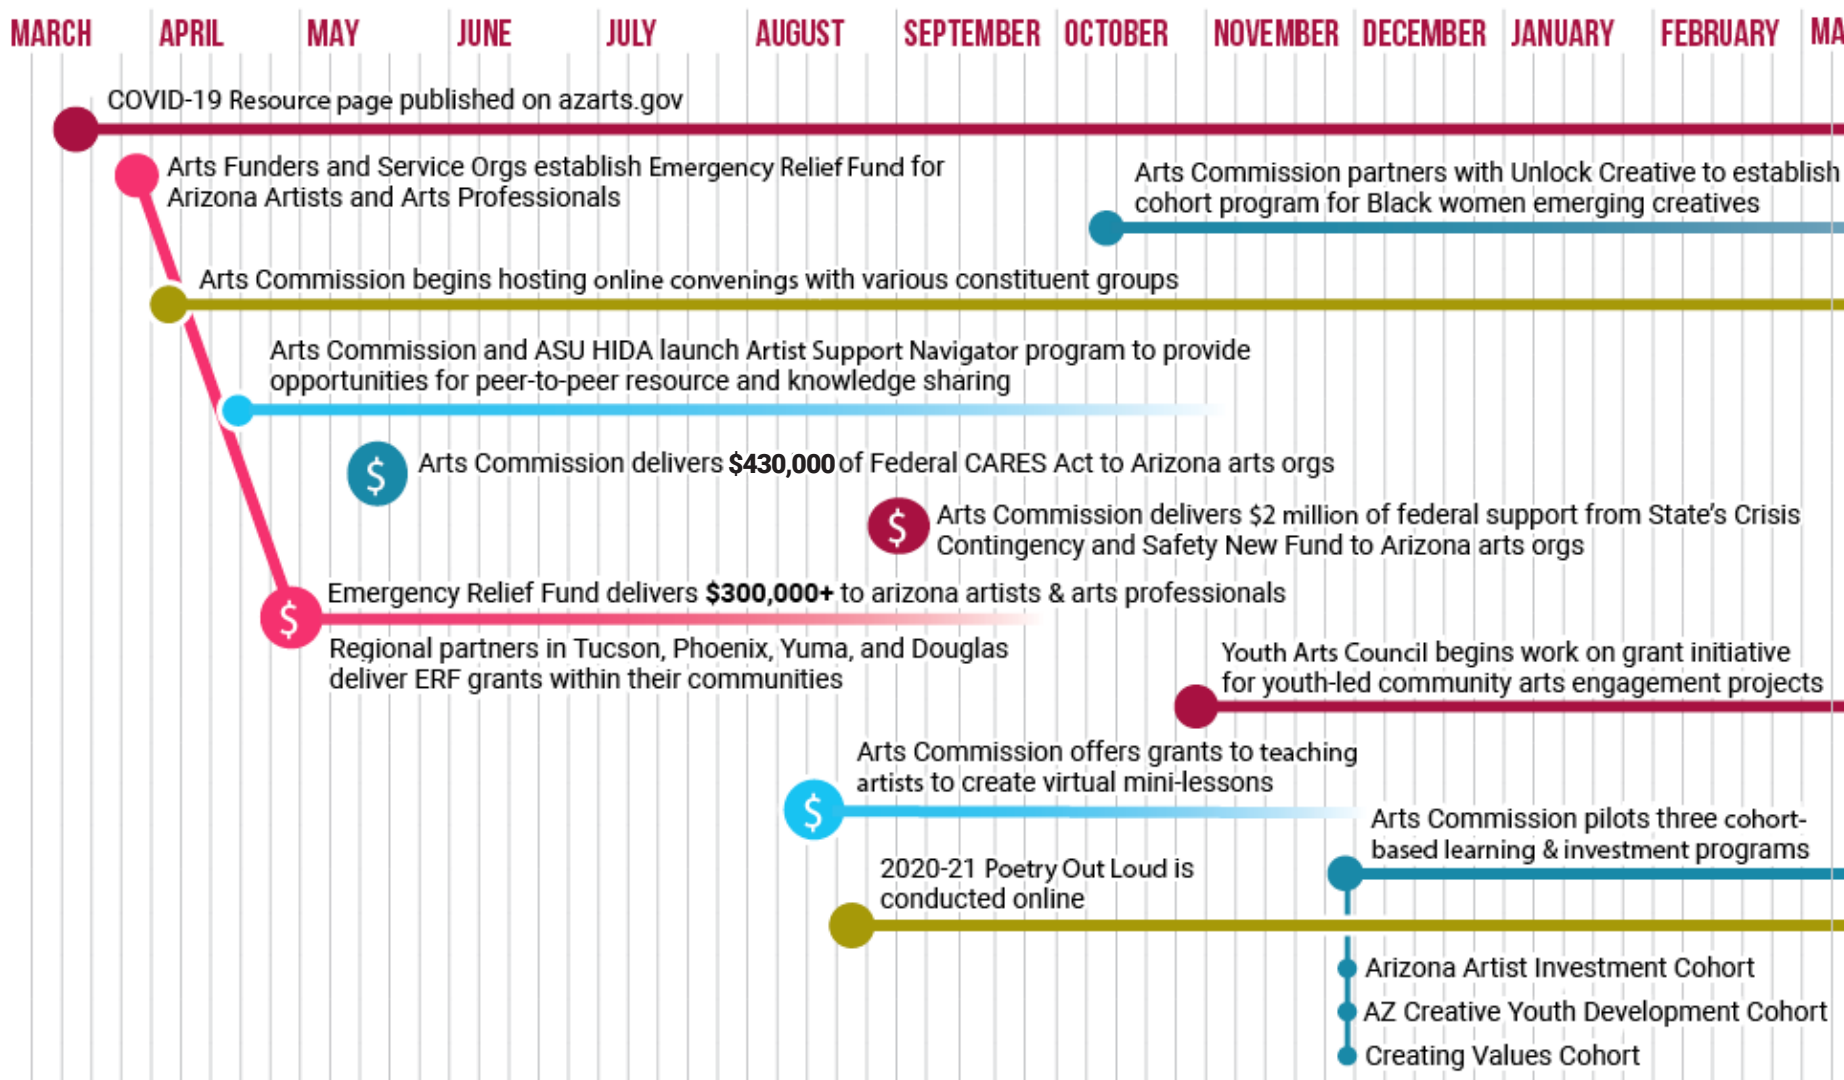

5

In recognition of the arts industry's role in economic viability, profitability and enhanced quality of life, Arizona's for-profit businesses invest in the arts as partners, supporters and champions.

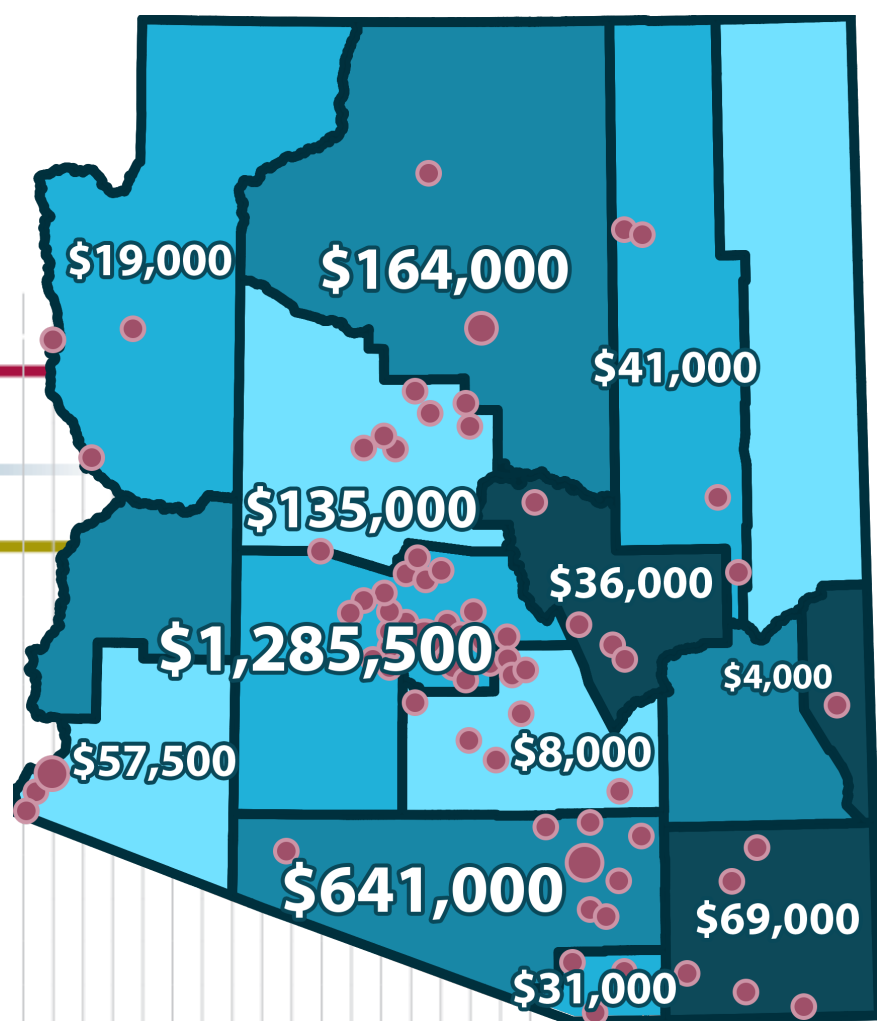

The Arts Commission considers these five points to be a long-term vision for a sustainable arts industry.

RAPID RESPONSE TO CRITICAL NEED

As COVID-19 spread around the world and across the nation over the Spring of 2020, the Arizona Commission on the Arts endeavored to respond swiftly and efficiently to the rapidly changing needs of Arizona's arts sector. Established programs and services were either placed on hiatus or adapted to better meet the unique challenges of the current moment. The story of March 2020 through Fiscal Year 2021 is one of rapid response, agile development, strategic partnerships, and active listening.

RCH APRIL MAY

INFORMATION AND REFERRAL

As a central hub for Arizona's arts and culture community, the Arts Commission is well-positioned to relay information, make referrals and otherwise facilitate sector-wide communication and connections.

Through three electronic newsletters the Arts Commission delivers the latest news, information, opportunities, and resources to nearly 7,000 subscribers each month.

Additionally, the Arts Commission maintains an extensive and frequently updated website (www.azarts.gov) where constituents can access a wealth of valuable information from anywhere in the state at any time.

A page dedicated to COVID-19 resources and information was added to the agency's website in mid-March 2020 and updated throughout FY2021. There, Arizona's arts venues could find the latest guidance on operating during the pandemic, arts administrators could connect with industry peers across the country, and professional artists could discover sources of emergency aid.

RESEARCH

The Arts Commission maintains a wide array of research data and analysis on the arts, arts education and arts funding trends. The Arts Commission provides these resources to constituents through azarts.gov and print publications, as well as to other service organizations and public agencies. The Arts Commission also tracks research and statistics on a broad range of areas, from cultural tourism to economic impact studies of the arts to the influence of arts education on student achievement.

In FY2021, the Arts Commission, in partnership with the Arizona Department of Education published the latest data gathered through their ongoing Arts Education Data Project. Prepared by Quadrant Research, the Arts Education Data Project includes school enrollment data self-reported by schools across the state, both traditional public schools and charter, grades pre-K through 12, for the 2013-14, 2014-15, 2015-16, 2016-17, 2017-18, 2018-19, and 2019-20 school years.

The data can be reviewed in an executive summary report and through an interactive explorer housed on the agency's website.

CONVENINGS & PRESENTATIONS

In its role as a convener, the Arizona Commission on the Arts presents opportunities for the state's artists, arts administrators, educators and arts supporters to gather, network, learn from each other and share resources.

In the midst of the pandemic, the Arizona Commission on the Arts employed social media, video, and virtual conferencing platforms to deliver news and information, convene professional peer groups, and connect Arizonans to vital resources.

As the agency's staff and constituents grew more comfortable with these technologies, remote connection and knowledge sharing became central to the Arts Commission's programs and approaches. Agency staff researched and experimented with best practices for engagement and accessibility within virtual spaces and shared this learning with the field. Automated live-captioning, spoken descriptions of images and graphics, and alternative modes of access are now standard features for all virtual convenings.

AZ CREATIVE AGING

AZ Creative Aging is an ambitious and comprehensive initiative to build a creative aging infrastructure to enhance quality of life for older Arizonans. AZ Creative Aging has provided training to teaching artists, arts organization, and aging/healthcare service providers; supported the development of high-quality arts programs for older adults; and embedded creative aging knowledge and best practices in the community.

In Fiscal Year 2021, the Arts Commission continued to support the development of creative aging programs and practices, establishing a research cohort and offering grants to help practitioners access technology that enabled them to serve older Arizonans isolated due to the pandemic.

AZ CREATIVE YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

The AZ Creative Youth Development (CYD) Investment Cohort invests in arts and culture organizations and programs that center youth voice across Arizona. Piloted in FY2021, the CYD Investment Cohort functions as a fusion of a cohort and granting program, bringing together a diverse group of young people and adults. Cohort members share resources and engage with knowledge experts in the field to advance their skills as Creative Youth Development practitioners.

AZ YOUTH ARTS COUNCIL

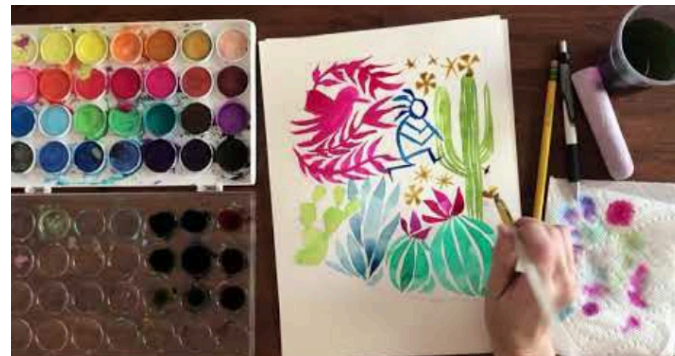

The AZ Youth Arts Council advises the Arts Commission on grant programs and initiatives that directly affect young people. The 15 member council convenes regularly to review issues related to arts and culture programs and services for young people and learn about policy related to equal access to the arts for all young people in Arizona.

VIRTUAL MINI-LESSONS

In response to the COVID-19 crisis and its impact on traditional spaces for arts learning and education, the Arts Commission provided funding and training to support Arizona teaching artists in the creation of short instructional videos for diverse learners. 40 professional teaching artists throughout the state, representing all artistic disciplines, were selected to produce up to six lessons each. These instructional videos were then published to the agency's website and YouTube page, presented free of charge to support educators, parents, and caregivers.

FOLK AND TRADITIONAL ARTS

Through the State Partnership Grant, the National Endowment for the Arts provides state arts agencies with support for stable, professionally-directed programs that are responsive to a state's diverse folk and traditional arts heritage. Since 2014, the Arizona Commission on the Arts has partnered with the Southwest Folklife Alliance to serve as the state's official folk arts partner.

Southwest Folklife Alliance is the first dedicated folklife organization along the US-Mexico border corridor focused solely on uplifting, supporting, and presenting the work of traditional artists year-round. Their mission is to build more equitable and vibrant communities by celebrating the everyday expressions of culture, heritage and diversity in the Southwest.

HOW ARE GRANTS AWARDED?

All grants and awards from the Arts Commission are made in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, American Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination Act of 1975 and Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

Grants are awarded through a process that begins with the organization or individual applying for support. Eligible applications are evaluated through a panel review process. These panels include community leaders, local businesspeople, artists, arts administrators and educators from diverse geographic, artistic and cultural/ethnic communities of Arizona.

Panelists review applications in a given category, generously giving of their time and expertise, and provide recommendations for funding to the Arts Commission. Individual Governor-appointed Commissioners chair the panel meetings and as a body, carefully consider the recommendations of the panelists in order to authorize the final grant awards. Grant recipients document and certify the use of the funds before payment is made and must provide appropriate documentation in a final report on the project or funding-period activities after completion.

WHERE DOES THE MONEY COME FROM?

The Arizona Commission on the Arts received and disbursed funds from three sources in Fiscal Year 2021:

Federal funds, provided through Congressional appropriations to the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) and awarded to the Arts Commission as a State Partnership Grant following a competitive national panel review.

The Arizona Arts Trust Fund, derived from a portion of annual business filing fees for for-profit corporations, collected and managed by the Arizona Corporation Commission. Receipts from this fund are used as the required match to the Arts Commission's NEA State Partnership Grant.

The Arts Fund, a state-held local account into which interest from the private Art-Share Endowment (held by the Arizona Community Foundation) is deposited. The Arts Fund also holds designated foundation grants and corporate sponsorships awarded to the Arts Commission, as well as receipts from event registration fees.

THROUGHOUT THE STATE

Awarding grants to arts organizations and schools is at the center of the Arizona Commission on the Arts' service. In this effort grant applicants are our partners, providing direct arts experiences throughout Arizona. The Arts Commission provides a variety of funding opportunities that enable schools, nonprofit organizations, and community groups to carry out projects and maintain ongoing, high quality public arts programming.

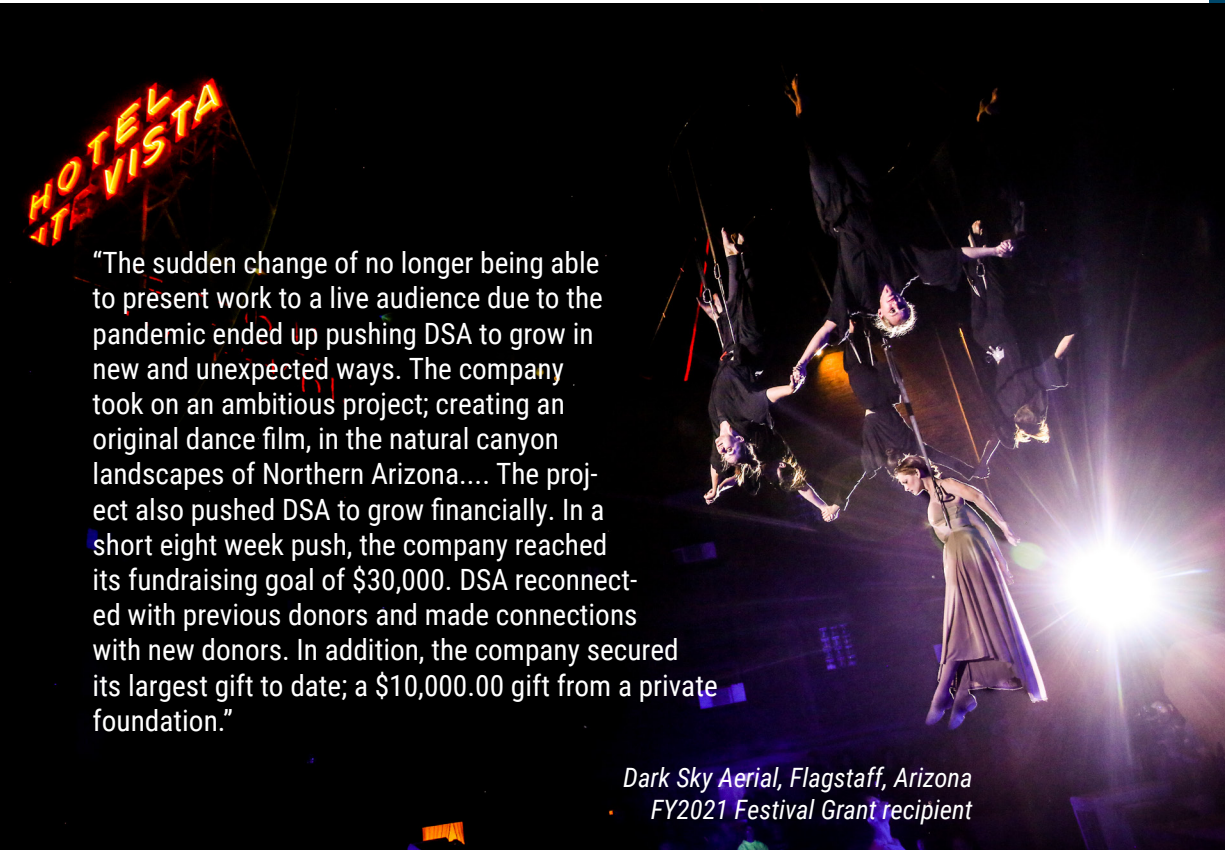

While emergency funding comprised the majority of grantmaking in Fiscal Year 2021, additional grant programs providing project, program, and capacity building support for Arizona arts organizations and creative workers further bolstered the sector.

FESTIVAL GRANTS

Festival Grants assist local arts agencies, tribal cultural organizations, government departments or agencies, university/college departments, and other nonprofit cultural and social service organizations in their efforts to provide quality arts programming through festival activities.

Due to the pandemic, festival grantees were forced to reimagine the form and content of their programming for the year. Rather than cancel funding to festivals that could not be realized as they normally would, with artists and performers from around the world presenting their work to large gatherings of people, the Arts Commission allowed Festival Grant recipients to use their grant funds to experiment with new forms of engagement, invest in remote presentation technologies, and prepare themselves for an uncertain future.

"The sudden change of no longer being able to present work to a live audience due to the pandemic ended up pushing DSA to grow in new and unexpected ways. The company took on an ambitious project; creating an original dance film, in the natural canyon landscapes of Northern Arizona.... The project also pushed DSA to grow financially. In a short eight week push, the company reached its fundraising goal of $30,000. DSA reconnected with previous donors and made connections with new donors. In addition, the company secured its largest gift to date; a $10,000.00 gift from a private foundation."

REPORTS FROM THE FIELD

In their final reports for the year, many Festival Grant recipients reported how grant funds had led them to unexpected opportunities and allowed them room to experiment with innovative approaches.

"There was much worry that a virtual Matsuri would play to an empty audience. In fact the opposite was true. Arizona Matsuri was able to reach people in Europe, Japan, Phoenix's sister city Himeji, and across the United States. Organizers of similar events in Boston, Chicago, and San Francisco contacted Arizona Matsuri with technical questions. The result was that a coalition of Japanese Festivals was formed with the purpose of sharing ideas and artist information."

*Arizona Matsuri, Phoenix, Arizona

"Due to the pandemic, the consulates of Mexico from around the world had a virtual channel which featured celebrations for their independence day. The Mexican consulate in Douglas placed this piece as part of their presentation. Because of this gesture, the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de Mexico's branch in Tucson created a video about our Concert Without Borders. This appeared on their global youtube channel for the event."

RESEARCH & DEVELOPMENT GRANTS

The highly-competitive Research and Development Grant program promotes the advancement of artistic research, aids in the development of artistic work and recognizes the contributions artists make to Arizona's communities and sense of cultural identity.

The Arizona Commission on the Arts awarded 24 Research and Development Grants in FY2021.

LIFELONG ARTS ENGAGEMENT GRANTS

Lifelong Arts Engagement Grants support projects that foster meaningful arts learning experiences in community settings for adult learners of any age. Projects can include, but are not limited to, using creative expression to improve quality of life for older adults (Creative Aging), intergenerational projects, and/or providing sequential hands on learning in, through, or about the arts for adult learners.
